Kansas City is the ideal location for an e-commerce distribution business. Kansas City provides low transportation costs, a favorable tax environment, proximity to 80 percent of the U.S. major markets and an unparalleled transportation infrastructure to support the distribution of online retail business. Along with KC's central location, it also is home to significant FedEx and UPS hubs. Access to these hubs allow for a KC distribution facility to deliver merchandise from online retailers faster than any location in the U.S. KC is also home to the largest Foreign Trade Zone in the nation, with a proactive process to activate FTZ space.
